

Dandelion coffee, also dandelion tea, was a herbal drink often used as a coffee substitute, made from the root of the dandelion plant. The roasted dandelion root pieces and the beverage had some resemblance to coffee in appearance and taste